Permanent Link to Telit releases NavIC-enabled GNSS module
2021/05/24

Telit has introduced a new positioning module aimed at India. The SL869T3-I combines GPS with India's NavIC (IRNSS) navigation system and the country's satellite-based augmentation system (SBAS), known as GAGAN. The SL869T3-I module enables the creation of high-performance position reporting and navigation solutions. It complies with Automotive Industry Standard 140 (AIS-140) — an Indian government mandate that requires the use of NavIC for vehicle location tracking devices in all public transportation vehicles, effective April 2019. The SL869T3-I is a 16 x 12.2-millimeter module with an LLC package. It is provided with a single RF input for L1 and L5 bands. It also contains Flash memory, a low noise amplifier (LNA) and SAW filters. The RF front end is specifically designed to comply with sensitivity specifications contained in AIS-140 standard. "The new SL869T3-I is among the first IoT GNSS positioning receiver modules to deliver IRNSS/NavIC L5 coverage compliant with the Indian government's AIS-140 regulation," said Manish Watwani, EVP global product management, Telit. "This new addition to the Telit family of products results from more than 20 years' experience in GNSS applications." For more information, visit booth C3.227 at Electronica, Nov. 13-16 in Munich, Germany.
